

Contribution ID: 290

Type: Poster

Design of anaerobic digester with automatic temperature control

Unnecessary temperature fluctuations due to factors such as self heating effect adversely affect performance and stability of anaerobic digesters [1]. A digester will be designed with an automatic temperature regulation mechanism that incorporates sensors, temperature regulator and cooling/heating system, which will be triggered into action upon receiving sensor instructions resulting from detection of unnecessary temperature fluctuations.

Primary author: Mr PAGONA, Felix (Fort Hare Institute of Technology, Physics Department)

Presenter: Mr PAGONA, Felix (Fort Hare Institute of Technology, Physics Department)

Track Classification: Track F - Applied and Industrial Physics