

Contribution ID: 62

Type: Presentation

Z-dependent Bessel-like Beams

Bessel beams are generated by the propagation of plane waves along a conical surface. Experimentally such beams exist for a finite distance (near-field) however abruptly transforms into an annular ring (far-field). Here we outline a new optical method which allows a Bessel function to exist in the Far-field as the propagation distance tends to infinity.

Primary author: Ms ISMAIL, Yaseera (CSIR-National Laser Centre)

Co-author: Prof. FORBES, Andrew (CSIR-National Laser Centre)

Presenter: Ms ISMAIL, Yaseera (CSIR-National Laser Centre)

Track Classification: Track C - Lasers, Optics and Spectroscopy